

MAURO COLAGRECO, CHEF PATRON OF THE “WORLD’S BEST RESTAURANT” OPENS CÔTE AT CAPELLA BANGKOK

ELEGANT CULINARY ARTISTRY TRAVELS FROM THE SHORES OF THE FRENCH RIVIERA TO THE BANKS OF THE CHAO PHRAYA RIVER

Côte by Mauro Colagreco at Capella Bangkok

Bangkok, Thailand – With the opening of Capella Bangkok comes the highly-anticipated Côte by Mauro Colagreco. The three-Michelin-starred chef behind the 2019 World’s Best Restaurant, Mirazur, Chef Mauro is set to elevate the region’s dining scene to greater heights with his first Southeast Asian outpost. Bringing the ‘Riviera to the River’, Côte invites guests to celebrate the flavours of the French and Italian Riviera by the banks of the Chao Phraya.

Côte’s refined menu embraces seasons, colours, textures and flavours, as it takes its inspiration from two of the world’s desired destinations. Produce is sourced day by day, where guests can enjoy a personal dining narrative, highlighted in a nightly nine-course ‘Carte Blanche’ menu. Pre-dinner tasting plates in the show kitchen with champagne cocktails will fold into a seasonally-inspired menu followed by an after-dinner aperitif at the Green House, where Capella Bangkok organically grows over 100 specialist herbs for use in the kitchen.

“When I arrived in Bangkok I fell in love. It is as simple as that. The passion for food and the culture and spirit – from the innate understanding of nature and the seasons to the history and flow of the river make this the perfect place to open my first Southeast Asian outpost.

Drawing inspiration from Bangkok and the Riviera, Côte will create a magical new dining destination, of that I am sure,” said Chef Mauro.

All dishes at Côte will be uniquely designed for the restaurant while adopting the philosophy of Mirazur – evidenced by the monkfish ‘a la cacciatora’ where the dish marries the sea and land in a recipe that typically uses chicken.

Thai ingredients and techniques are infused into a menu featuring ginger, lemongrass, kaffir lime and pomelo, with a pestle and mortar central to creating sauces – a key component in French Riviera and Italian Liguria cuisine. The collaboration will see Chef Mauro work closely with Capella Bangkok’s culinary team: Executive Chef, Antony Scholtmeyer, Chef de Cuisine, Marc Vasseur and Chef Davide Garavaglia, the former Chef de Cuisine of Mirazur.

“It gives me great pleasure to welcome Côte to Capella Bangkok. We look forward to introducing our guests to the outstanding skill and passion of Chef Mauro. Like France and Italy, Thailand is a capital of gastronomy – a country where food is woven into the fabric of life. We are delighted to take our place at the top table of Bangkok’s dining scene and add to it’,” added John Blanco, General Manager of Capella Bangkok.

Côte is located on the riverbank in Bangkok’s historic Charoenkrung district, an alluring urban enclave that has welcomed new settlers – including many intrepid French and Italian travellers – to Thailand for centuries. Today, the neighbourhood remains a rich melting pot of race, religion, culture and cuisine.

Capella Bangkok features 101 stunning suites and the city’s first riverfront villas. Its design deeply honours the heritage of Bangkok’s first commercial outpost and guests are guided through its hidden corridors and avenues to an engaging and unforgettable experience.

Côte by Mauro Colagreco is located on the second floor of Capella Bangkok, and is open for lunch from 12pm to 2pm and dinner from 6pm to 10pm (closed on Mondays and Tuesdays).
